

FREE VIRTUAL WORKSHOP SERIES

Evaluation of initiatives that support survivors of exploitative migration practices

Wednesday, January 31, 2024 / 12:00 – 1:00 p.m. ET

Presented by:
Safal Khatri, M.A., M.Ed.
khatri15@usf.edu

Millions of individuals from developing countries migrate to other nations for employment. Unfortunately, some find themselves in exploitative conditions from which escape seems impossible. Various agencies and initiatives are helping these exploited migrant workers return to their home countries and assimilate back into their societies. This presentation will provide an overview of agencies in a country in South Asia and delve into an evaluation that sheds light into the need and success of initiatives supporting survivors of exploitative migration practices.

For access to this virtual workshop, please contact
Dr. Lilliana Rodríguez-Campos
liliana@usf.edu // +1 (813) 528-5041 // bit.ly/3esf5pL

Call for Workshop Proposals:

We are seeking presenters on a broad array of topics at the national and international levels.

